Two people are dead after a rollover crash that closed State Route 77 just north of Snowflake Friday morning. The crash happened about 5:17 a.m. eight miles north of Snowflake at milepost 368, according to an Arizona Department of Public Safety spokesman. He said the vehicle was southbound when it left the road, ran into the shoulder and back on to the road before rolling several times and landing on its roof. Both victims were found inside, he said.

MATFORCE UPDATE:

In a statement provided to MATFORCE on September 24, 2014, Trent Clatterbuck, Navajo County Medical Examiner, reported: "An unknown animal (Deer / Elk) reportedly darted out in front of them causing the driver to swerve. The vehicle rolled several times ejecting all 5 boys. 2 died at the scene and the other 3 were either taken to local hospital or flown to shock trauma in the valley. The 2 deceased boys tested positive for THC during the post mortem examination and the other 3 all tested positive for THC as well."
